

OUR ISLAND CONTEMPORARIES

Things are getting to a pretty pass in Honolulu when good political workers have to dig down and pay taxes, just like anyone else. The idea of Mayor Lane, who is giving his time and his talents to the welfare of the public, and the other municipal employees, including seventy of the police force, having to help pay their own salaries! The thing is ridiculous on the face of it. By all means let's get to work on that new charter. An end has to be brought to any such system as holds back any part of a city employee's pay for anything so foolish as axes.—Advertiser.

To us, tourists for Kohala seem like a far-off dream. Hilo—the Volcano—yes! But a "helau" and a ditch trail don't loom large enough as tourist attractions, beside Yosemite, Yellowstone Park, the Pyramids, a live Volcano, surf-riding at Waikiki, or an ascent of Haleakala.

"The simpler joys for us; spooning around the block," in a Ford, Hawi ginger ale and the baby's new tooth! Tourists' gold will not cross our calloused palms. Dismiss the dream. We can't make a show-down.—Kohala Midget.

Billy Sunday's itinerary does not include the war zone. One would imagine that so "earnest" a sky-pilot would want to get message to those thousands who are facing immediate death. We don't wish Billy Sunday any harm, but we'd rather he'd go to the trenches than come to Honolulu.—The Service.

Last week-end booze items: Drunk husband tried to brain his wife with skillet; she smashed platter over his head and he went to the hospital—Booze-fighter, on tabu list, faked a fit in order to get a drink; faked too hard and broke his face on the sidewalk and went to hospital—Round-up of Wahiawa blind-piggers (men and women); some jailed—Sampson launching party winds up with drunken Japanese stabbing two "friends" who are now in hospital—and so on, ad nauseum, ad damnum.—The Service.

In Judge Edings Maui has a man of exceptional legal learning, honesty and sincerity at the head of her court; and the Valley Isle is to be congratulated upon the fact that he is not to be transferred to Honolulu.—Garden Island.

The need of a suitable and safe landing at Lahaina has been emphasized at various times and in various ways since the days when fleets of whale ships were piled up there; but it seems that something has invariably intervened to block plans for the improvement. We hope that other lives may not be sacrificed at Lahaina before the proper authorities awake to the situation.—Garden Island.

Uncle Sam's ambassador at Constantinople is now holding down seven embassies besides his own. That's nothing—think of how many jobs are swung gaily along by our superintendent of public works.—Star-Bulletin.

Beach Party Given for Palama Basket Ball Girls

The Waihee beach last Sunday was the scene of several bathing parties, and the number of bathers, surf board and canoe riders, gave it the appearance of a tourist resort. The various beach houses along the shore from Waiehu to beyond Waihee were occupied, and it being a splendid day, an enjoyable time is reported all along.

At the Penhallow beach house a party was given in honor of the Palama Settlement basket ball team. Bathing, surfing, and canoeing was indulged in by those present, after which a fine lunch was laid out of which all partook. The party returned to Wailuku late in the afternoon, tired but happy.

Among those present were: Major and Mrs. W. E. Bal, Mrs. G. D. Schrader, Mrs. A. Garcia, Mrs. Frank Aki, Jr., Misses E. Cunningham, Achoy Ahu, Mabel Titcomb, Lizzie Ianna, Lillian Biart Mary Luan, Bernice Lane, Elizabeth Akana, Jennie Hoina, Mary Hoff man, Jennie Kahalekai, Ella Bal, Esther Tallant, Gerlie Hart, Gladys Hart, Louise Robinson, Pet Robinson, Tweet Robinson, Lovey Robinson, Messrs. Archie Bal, Jean Bal, Ernest Weight, Susie Baldwin, John Robinson, Henry Robinson, Alvin Robinson, Foster Robinson, Robert Smythe, John M. Brown.

J. D. Spreckels and Party Pay Visit to Maui

The John D. Spreckels party which has been touring the Islands in Mr. Spreckels' private yacht, spent a portion of last Friday and Saturday visiting Maui. The yacht arrived about noon on Friday, and the same evening a reception was tendered the noted visitors at the Puunene Club House. On Saturday the party spent the day visiting the scenes with which his father, the late Claus Spreckels, in former years had much to do, and other points of interest. During their stay the party was also entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rice, and Mr. Spreckels was host to Mr. and Mrs. F. Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Collins, at a dinner on board his yacht. During his tour of the Islands, Mr. Spreckels has visited every island of the group. It was his first visit to Hawaii in over ten years.
